List of specific record(s):

As we are currently putting together a report on the state of skeletal infrastructure in New York City, information regarding Port Authoritys capital investments will be of great help to us in our quest for information on the citys bridges, tunnels, and airports. Port Authority, of course, has a considerable stake in these forms of skeletal infrastructure, and access to a five year capital budget would enable us to better understand long-term infrastructural investments, and to then compare with them with other city agencies.
