To Whom It May Concern:

I am a doctoral candidate in the School of Criminology and Criminal Justice at Northeastern University working under James Alan Fox, The Lipman Family Professor of Criminology, Law and Public Policy. My work focuses on art crime and, more specifically, my dissertation seeks to provide a better understanding of the patterns of art theft in the United States, as well as the investigative tools that most effectively lead to stolen art recovery. This project involves examining and analyzing information in police theft reports.

I understand that the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey handled a case of art theft that fits the criteria of my research and I would like to request access to the records indicated below. In the interest of protecting the victim(s), I do not need identifying information. However, it would help to know the classification of the victim as a museum, gallery, educational institution, private owner, business, religious institution, or other (please specify). Northeastern University's Institutional Review Board has evaluated and approved this research (IRB#: 14-08-10).

It would be preferable if the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey could provide a copy. Alternatively, the Federal Bureau of Investigation's Art Crime Team has indicated that they are willing to release their own copy of the records if consent is given by the appropriate authority at the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey. Please see the enclosed release form for further details.
